

opinion of it. I don't see how they made the old car they had last as long as it did. When I was there back in May they were talking about making it last until the First of the year but even then I thought if it lasted until they got me back to the airport it would be doing good. If I remember correctly they were talking about financing it through the Federal Credit Union therein the Pentagon. Seems that Cess's rating had something to do against him getting the loan but his Sgt. was going to help him out on that.
