I don't particularly like the food but can get by on it. One in Saigon lasted 3 hours. You wouldn't believe it. I haven't weighed since I left home but don't believe I have lost any wt this trip.

It may be a good thing you aren't with me here. You wouldn't believe the things here to buy. The prices are not as low as I thought they would be. The 1st two floors of the hotel are filled with shops. Quite a number of tailor shops both for men + women.

I did get you a piece of Thai silk. Hope you like it. That's about all I have bought. I just haven't had time to even look around. We plan to have lunch at the Ocean Terminal pier and I understand the shops on the pier are open on Sunday. Probably will just look through.
